Organize an International E-Conference on:

Islamic Finance and Ethical Investment: International Experiences and Local Specificities

19 March 2022
ENCG, FSJES, El Jadida, Morocco
(Online / Virtual conference)

CALL FOR PAPERS

1. Background

Some theories argued that the world of ethics and that of finance are not antipodal. Some practices showed that ethics in finance could then be presented as initiatives aimed at framing the practices of the various actors and at improving their confidence.

Due to repeated financial crises, the emergence of ethical finance could also be seen as a response to the excesses of the current financial system, by encouraging the consideration of extra-financial criteria in investment decisions.

Many manifestations of ethics can take place according to the used referential (moral, religious, environmental, social, etc.). Thus, ethical funding can be socially responsible or morally responsible, and so-called Islamic finance is part of this second category.

Islamic financial industry includes banks, takaful as well as Shariah compliant financial markets. In Morocco, after the publication of Law 103-12 in March 2015, the first participatory banks started their activity in July 2017. Then, the Moroccan state issued the first sovereign sukuk in October 2018. In March 2019, Bank Al Maghrib has just authorized participating banks to offer their clients term investment deposits, after the authorization of Shariah board. The publication of takaful law 87-18 on 22 August 2019 is a further step in the process.

Given the complexity of the subject and the multiplicity of actors, countries are not all at the same stage of implementation of Islamic finance, and each experience has its strengths and weaknesses, and presents opportunities and threats.

Conscious of the importance of the subject, the organizing committee of this international conference has chosen as theme: “Islamic Finance and Ethical Investment: International Experiences and Local Specificities”. The purpose of this online scientific event will be to bring together experts in the field of Islamic finance and ethics, to discuss online and share their experiences on the subject.

It will also be an opportunity to shed light on the practice of Islamic finance in some countries, on the specificities of the Moroccan experience in this area, on the strengths and problems encountered, as well as on the recommendations to consider.

2. THEMES
